

J-Spot Services, LLC
Private Utility Locating Customer Agreement

Terms of service: J-Spot Services, LLC's liability for damages incurred to any utility hit by the contracting customer while excavating, trenching, land leveling, using explosives or displacing of earth in any form will be assessed based on the following guidelines and stipulations.

J-Spot's electromagnetic locating services are supplementary to damage prevention with no guarantees of locating unmapped utilities, utilities which have underlying infrastructure problems preventing them from being traceable, utilities with no means of locating through a conductive tracer system, a damaged tracer system or have no readily available access points to connect leads or push rod/fish tape through to complete the locate. Utilities such as directly buried metallic water lines, gas lines or sewer/storm lines or ones requiring push rod/fish tape deeper than 12 feet may not be accurately traceable through methods J-Spot Services immediately provides. If any such utility is known ahead of time and brought to J-Spot's attention, J-Spot will take the measures necessary to address these utilities and offer possible solutions for locating them. J-Spot Services LLC does not own utility systems and cannot take responsibility for locating any utility which is not obviously accounted for, mapped or brought to our attention. It is the responsibility of the party contracting J-Spot Services to provide any contacts, records, maps, blueprints or information regarding existing underground lines.

Utility repairs or replacements which are a direct result of miss-mark lines, damages caused by J-Spot's actions in accessing the utility system for locating or excavating during locate verification processes, will be considered the responsibility of J-Spot Services, LLC. In the event of a damaged line, J-Spot must be contacted prior to any repairs and will assess each damage and options available to repair the line.

In the case of a miss marked line, J-Spot must be contacted and notified that measures to safely find the line were taken prior to crossing or working in the vicinity of the utility where the acting party's verification efforts had failed. J-Spot's liability buffer zone for miss marked utilities is as follows: 18" + utility width from 0-36" deep, 24" +utility width from 36-72" deep, 36" + utility width from 72-144" deep, utilities beyond 144" deep are considered "to the best of our knowledge" and excavating near these lines is at the discretion of the owner or contracting company.

In the event a line is miss-marked on either side outside of the buffer zone, J-Spot offers follow up service to successfully expose the lines using hydrovac excavation and will be done with no labor cost to the customer as long as the utility lies outside of the utility buffer. Mileage charges may apply if multiple service trips are required to complete this verification. In the event the utility is found by J-Spot within the utility buffer or vertically within this buffer zone deeper than previously thought, normal mileage and hydrovac rates will be incurred.

It is always recommended that when working around any underground utility, safe non-destructive digging practices such as hydrovac excavation are used to first verify the location of or work around each utility in jeopardy of being struck. These services are available through J-Spot's damage prevention locate verification services.
For more information visit www.jspotservices.com or call 844-776-8811.

I, _____, as a representative of _____, have read and agree to the customer agreement listed above. Our company, contractors or excavators will safely expose J-Spot's underground system locates prior to excavating, trenching, land leveling, using explosives or displacing of earth in any form in the locate area. In the event any underground system marked and not verified or unmarked due to no mapping or no means of locating, is damaged during excavation performed by the participating company, the liabilities, damages or injuries incurred will not be of consequence to J-Spot Services, LLC.

By signing below, I agree to the private utility locating terms of J-Spot Service, LLC as listed above.

Signature _____ Date _____